

The background of the title card is a dark, atmospheric hallway. On either side of the hallway are large, classical-style statues of figures, possibly angels or deities, which appear to be part of the wall's architecture. The lighting is very low, with the primary light source being the glowing title text. The perspective is looking down the length of the hallway, which recedes into a dark, shadowed distance.

DEATH BY PARANORMAL ACTIVITY?

The note spoke of three omens around the neighborhood which breaks the curse when you burn them. Ruby, Emerald and Jade. No one can identify that the note was written by Tang herself. But with no sign of break-in or violence, it is the main lead of this mysterious case.

Strangely, the cat also had the same unique decay that was on the woman. The woman, Tang Li Li, had just turned 71 two days from when she was found. A note was found at her bedside talking about a curse which kills when the sun rises.

In the uptown of the newly developed HOEs under the Housing Development Board, an elderly lady with her beloved cat was found dead yesterday at 2:00pm. The lady lives alone and the exact time of death could not be produced due to the unusual decay her body had. Speculations of probable paranormal activity increased when the autopsy could not identify her cause of death either. Neighbors said they did not smell anything or hear anything from her the past week, which was normal, however, the cat named Jade would always sneak out the window into the corridor at times. The cause of death for the cat is also unknown.
